Hosting a teaching session

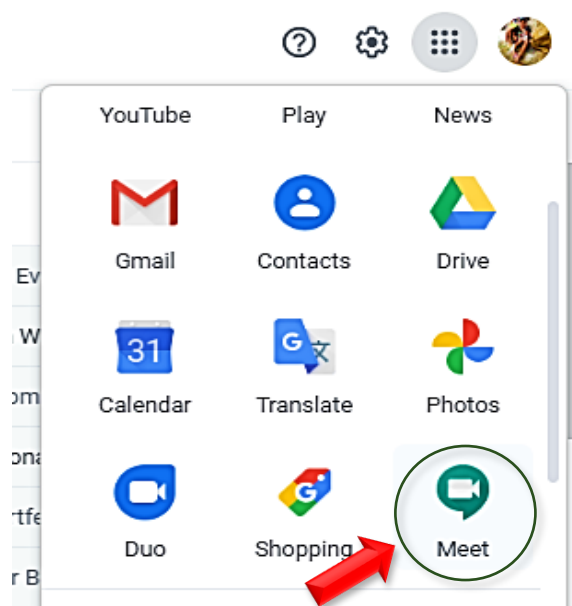

To begin a meeting or teaching session with Google Meet, log into your Gmail account.

Find the 'Google apps' symbol located in the top-right corner.

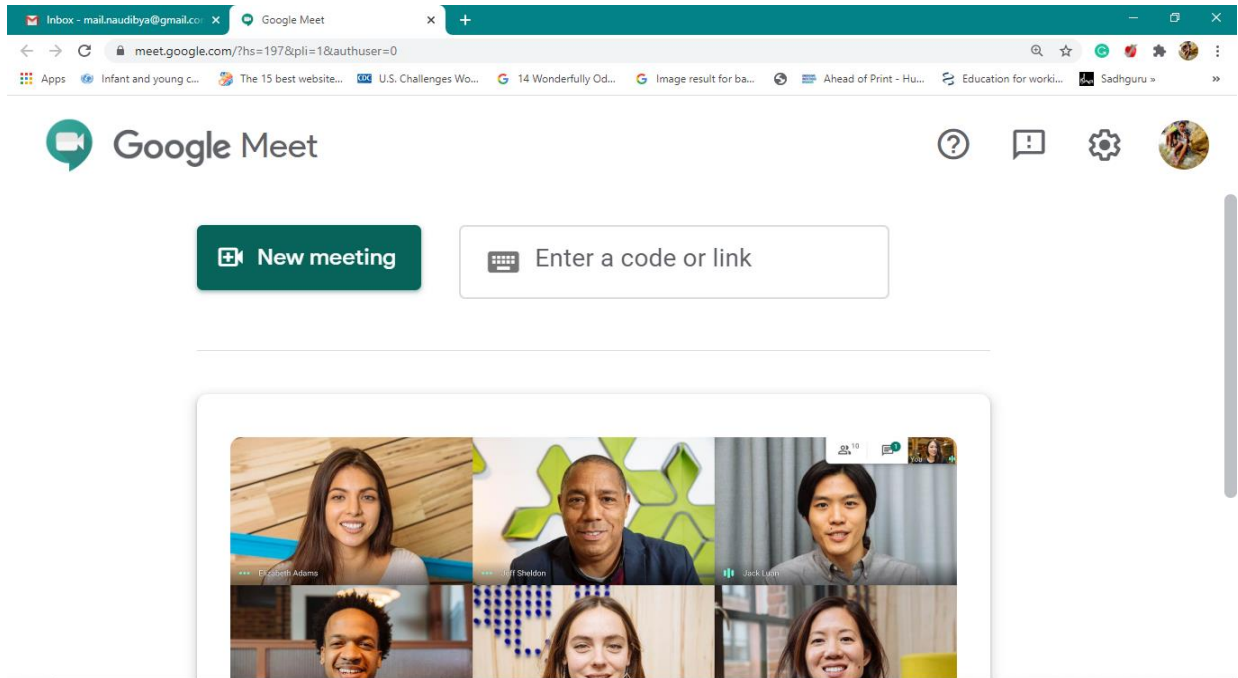

Click on the symbol and it will display all the Google apps.

Click on the 'Meet' icon.

After clicking on the icon, you will be redirected to the Google Meet webpage which appears like the image below.

Enter the meeting code or meeting URL of the scheduled teaching session/meeting in the given field.

Click 'Join' after the URL or meeting code has been entered.

Google Meet will access your camera and audio to get ready for the session.

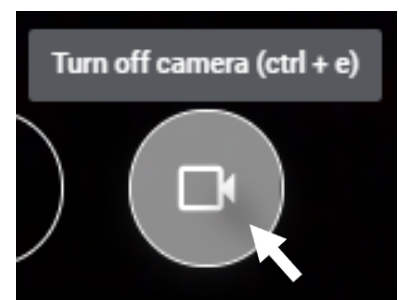

Make sure necessary camera and audio settings are already done in your device.

Getting ready...

The microphone and camera can be turned off or kept on according to suitability by clicking on their symbols.

Your camera or microphone is switched off, if the icons appear red.

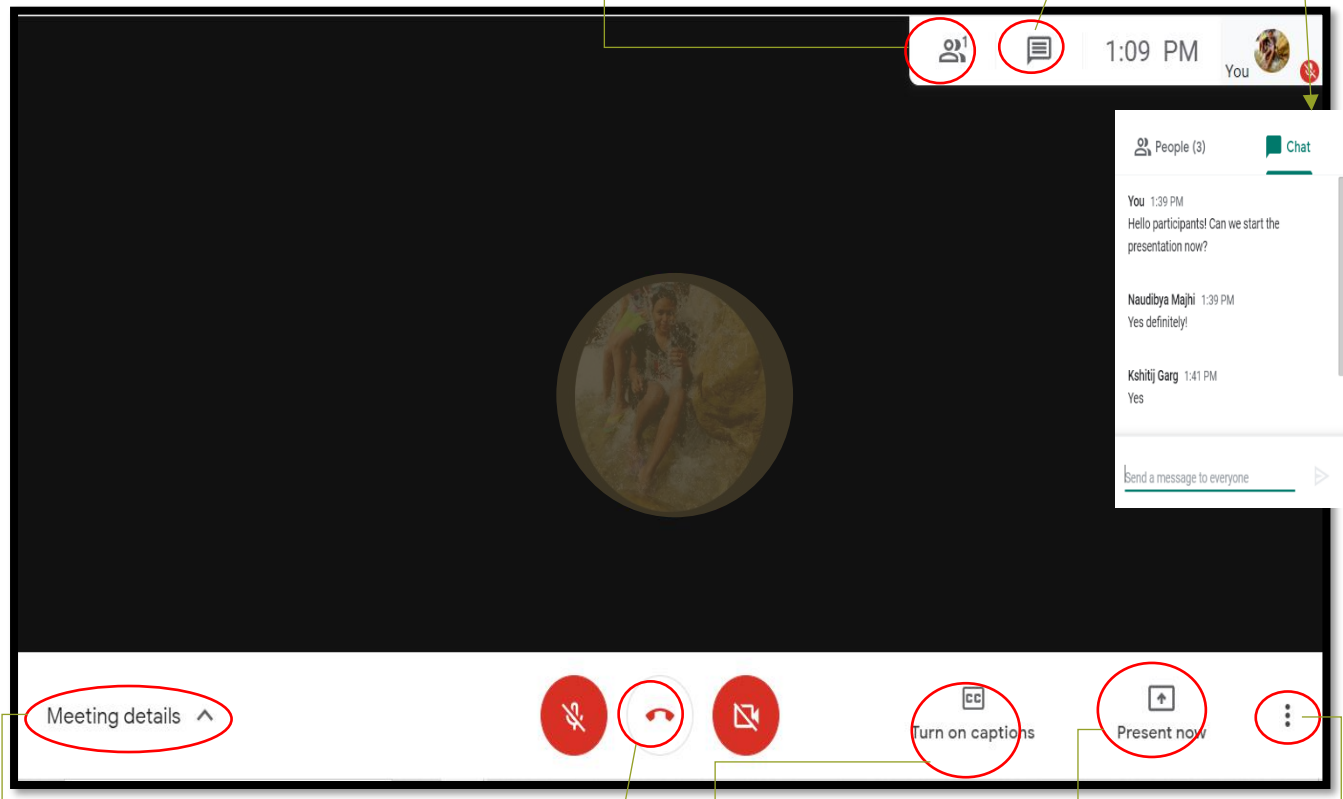

Click on 'Join now' when suitable camera and microphone settings are done.

The meeting has been started successfully if this window appears on your computer screen.

The number of participants is displayed here.
Clicking on the symbol shows the name list of the participants.

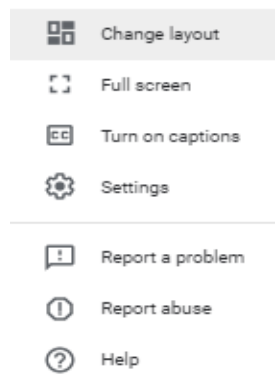

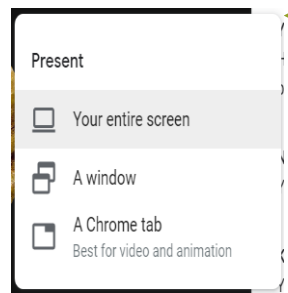

Clicking on this symbol opens the chat box on the right side where the participants of the meeting can type a comment or a query.

URL of the meeting can be copied from here for sharing.

Click here to end meeting

Click here for turning on auto-generated captions

For starting presentation click on 'Present now'.

The presenters can share their entire and start presenting on 'Slideshow' mode.

Admitting the students/participants

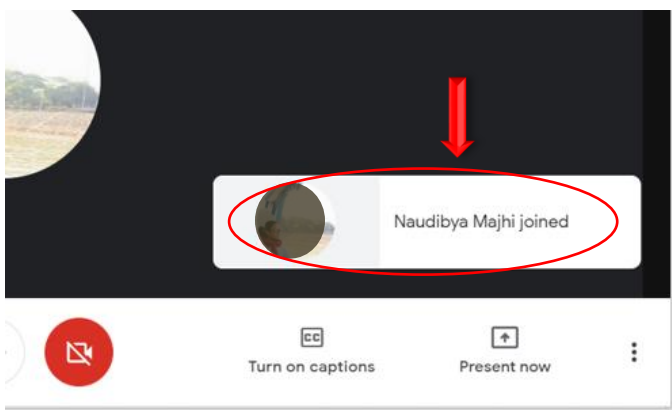

Participants who have the meeting code or URL can enter the code on Google Meet and click 'Ask to join' to get permission for entry into the meeting.

When a participant attempts to enter the meeting, a box pops up with his/her name for the presenter to take appropriate action on granting permission for entry.

Clicking on 'Admit' will allow the student to enter the meeting.

The action has to be performed for every participant.

Every time a participant enters or exits the meeting, a pop-up notification appears on the bottom of the screen.
